Can newspaper's kiosk counter the infobesity ?

Newspaper's kiosk has always been an icon in the Europeans cities. Until Early 2000's, it was the main place of Information, where people learn and read news of the day. Nowadays, due to the new technologies, information arrives directly in our pocket and the kiosk just became a simple shop.

Our proposal tries to mix the shopping part of the kiosk with a new function: a public space. Transforming the roof as stairs, the kiosk becomes a proper urban furniture where people can read, seat, eat or just chilling. But, even greater, this kiosk allows spontaneous and informal interaction between people in a colorful and friendly playground. We strongly believe this unexpected connection between people offer weapon the fight against fake news and misinformation in an over-connected society.
